

Combination Coal and Gas Crawford Ranges

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe. They are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light and explosions are impossible. This improvement is patented and very important.

The Damper is automatically opened by opening oven door to light the burners, which cannot be lighted until the door is opened.

In these Gas Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven, insuring better broiling and great convenience.

The Oven Bottoms and Racks are cast iron, and the outer walls are triple—an interlining of asbestos between two sheets of iron, which assists to retain the heat.

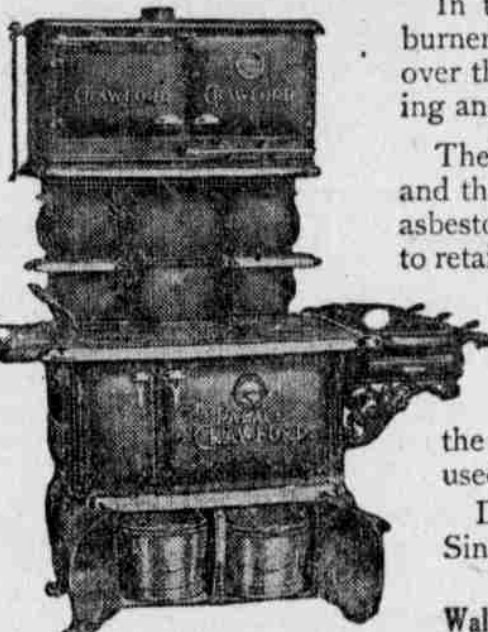

The use of these Gas Ovens does not interfere in any way with the operation of the coal range—both can be used at the same time.

Double Oven above or Single Oven at end of range.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Grace George Comes to the Barre Opera House Next Monday.

Grace George, who will be seen at the opera house next Monday in "Sauce for the Goose," by Geraldine Bonner, is the American Reine as well as the successor of Ada Rehan as the leading American comedienne. Her natural, yet artistic methods, her keen sense of humor, her power, which at times approaches inspiration, of vitalizing the lines and giving them new and unexpected meanings; her intensity, when intensity is demanded; her coquettishness, when it is the coy and flirtatious humor that she would effect; and, above all, her personal magnetism, combine to make her work in such a role as that of "Kitty Constable," in "Sauce for the Goose," irresistible. Those who are familiar with Miss George's portrayal of Cyprienne in "Divorçons" will understand the alluring character of "Kitty Constable" and the way in which it is portrayed by Miss George; for many of the characteristics of the French woman are recognized in this New York wife of a literary husband, who doesn't appreciate her. The London Daily Mail, in speaking of Miss George's work as a comedienne, said: "She is bound to conquer, for she is so human, so humorous, so sly, so tender, so bewitching, and all in a breath, that every woman who sees her will enjoy her, and every man will love her."

The coming of Miss George in her new play is a dramatic event of the first importance, and is especially interesting from the fact that the organization that is to appear here is the one that will formally open William A. Brady's new theatre, the "Playhouse," in New York

City, which is now approaching completion.

George Rogers Dropped Dead in Doctor's Office in Northfield.

George S. Rogers of this city dropped dead yesterday at the office of Dr. Daniel Johnson of Northfield, to whom he had gone for treatment of his eyes, being accompanied by his niece, Miss Gertrude Pearson. Death was caused by heart trouble, from which he had suffered at times. For some time his health had been poor, but yesterday he was feeling rather better than usual and made no complaint of feeling ill during the trip or after he reached Northfield. Just as the doctor had completed the treatment, he expired. The funeral will take place from the home of Mr. Rogers' sister, Mrs. Lucretia Pearson, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, with interment at Randolph Center. The deceased was 60 years of age and was born in Brandon. His wife, who was Edna Carter of Randolph Center, died nine years ago and since that time he had made his home with his sister, Mrs. Pearson. He is survived by a son, Cecil B., of Boston, and Mrs. Pearson. Another brother, Eugene Rogers, died only a few weeks ago.

Since the last shock he has failed steadily. Mr. Chase was born in Middlesex, December 9, 1846, and was one of nine children, five of whom are living. At the age of 21, he went to Northfield and became a carpenter. Soon after, he married Miss Frances Graves of Middlesex and to them one child was born, Pliny J. About 1879, Mrs. Chase died and Mr. Chase later married Laura Ann Long, who survives him, with one son, Guy M. Chase. While Mr. Chase lived in Northfield he worked in the car shops, which were then the principal industry of the place. He was a member of Co. F, of the state militia and of the fire company, being one of the firemen sent here to relieve the exhausted Montpelier firemen at the time of the big conflagration. Soon after his second marriage Mr. Chase moved to Middlesex and went into the insurance business, but for many years he had resided here. He was one of the oldest insurance agents in the state and had insured men in every town in Vermont. Several years ago he was given a medal by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, which he represented, for the third largest annual business of any agent in the country. He leaves a wife and two sons, also five brothers, Zolva of Woodbury, Melvin of St. Johnsbury, Nathaniel of Bethel, Simeon of Lowell, Mass., and Charles, who was last heard of in China.

"MAXWELL"

This New Model Ready for Delivery---NOW

The Greatest Family Car We call it the family car because it's the car every man with a family can afford to own and operate. Because it is big and roomy—accommodating five passengers. Because it is a car of such simple mechanism and absolute reliability that even a woman can drive without any fear of a breakdown on the road.

Last year we thought this car was perfection itself. Thousands were sold and they won the unqualified endorsement of every owner. But a year's time suggested some little improvements and refinements that now make this car even more economical and more luxurious.

Power, Speed, Durability Ask any one of the 41,000 Maxwell owners about the power of the Maxwell and no matter what model he has, he will tell you that his car will easily climb hills that few other cars can climb at all. Ask him about its speed and he'll say he has more than he has ever used. As to its durability, the Maxwell has not a peer in the automobile industry. This fact is freely admitted by all. It has been proved again and again.

An Example of Its Economy The Maxwell was the first car to ever advertise its cost of upkeep, few cars have dared to do it. And in no instance has the lowness of Maxwell figures been equaled. Last year this Maxwell model was advertised to run 5000 miles a year at a total average cost of $3.98 a week, including every expense. Hundreds of letters have since been received from Maxwell owners stating that our average figures are too high.

See the "Maxwell" BEFORE YOU BUY

You cannot afford to buy an Automobile without first looking the Maxwell over. For without seeing and understanding the mechanism and construction of this car you can never appreciate its many points. In the Maxwell you have a sound Automobile investment, proved for over eight years—not a hazardous speculation. We want to demonstrate this car to you. On all orders placed now we absolutely guarantee immediate delivery. Send to us for the Illustrated Catalogue of all the Maxwell 1911 models. Do it today! Just say, "Mail Book."
